Dear

On April 28, 2022, the Oakville and District Labour Council (ODLC) will be hosting a Day of Mourning Service.

The National Day of Mourning is observed every year on April 28 to commemorate and remember workers who have been killed, injured, or have become ill because of workplace hazards.

We invite you to join us at Oakville's Centennial Square, located at 120 Navy Street, at 2 pm on April 28th. The service will include speakers and an opportunity for Local Labour organizations to pay their respects or lay a wreath at the Worker's Memorial Plaque.

The organizing committee will provide program updates in the upcoming weeks on the ODLC website. <https://oakvillelabour.ca>

If you have any questions about the Service or plan to attend, please contact David Buddell at dbuddell@etfohalton.on.ca.

In Solidarity,

Maureen Weinberger
President, ODLC
